This is the question men struggle with over the entirety of their lives. Our identity is the most attacked commodity in our possession. We constantly wrestle with the ideas and thoughts about who we are and why we exist on this earth. But is it any wonder, since this has been the same issue we have all faced since the Garden of Eden.

No matter what we have or how good we have it, it never seems enough because we are always looking at what someone else has and disappointed we don't have it. While there are a few of us who struggle with serious issues, the majority of us, if we really take the time to reflect, really have very little to complain about.
